April 15, 2026

Dear Nijat Shikhaliyev,

The Stanford Pre-Collegiate Studies (SPCS) Financial Aid Committee has given careful consideration to your personal financial information, the SSS recommendation, and any other materials you have provided. This amount was offered in consideration of your current circumstances.

The committee has determined that your total financial aid award for the Summer 2026 term will be as follows:

Stanford University Mathematics Camp (SUMaC)

Tuition amount: $8950

Your financial aid award: $8950

Your remaining amount due: $0

Financial aid award offers are calculated based on demonstrated need and funds available. The Financial Aid Committee reserves the right to amend any award if the tax returns or other official documentation provided do not accurately reflect the information provided in the Parents' Financial Statement (PFS) in SSS. This award is predicated upon remaining in good standing with SPCS; failure to meet tuition payment deadlines may jeopardize financial aid.

This letter is your official notification of our financial aid offer, and you should save it for your records. Please note that should you be interested in participating in a future summer program, families must reapply for aid each year, and financial aid offers are reevaluated yearly.

If you have any questions about financial aid, use the Contact Form to email our office.
